Response to Aggression Instructor

This 40-hour course is an all-inclusive program that includes a practical approach to modern street officer defense, which is based on what officers are currently experiencing on the streets. We've kept the techniques and concepts in this system both simple and effective so that officers have an increased opportunity for success. This isn't an outdated pressure point wrist lock-based system that isn't practical and seldom works when attempted in the field. Proven police trainers constructed this system with the street officer in mind based on years of patrol experience with current police policies taken into consideration. This system provides both standing and ground defense concepts that are seldom found in other law enforcement systems that are often taught by civilian trainers that have never been in a police uniform. The program provides you with our award-winning teaching methodologies that are proven to increase interest in training. The Eastern Missouri Police Academy in St. Charles, MO has adopted this system to be taught to each police cadet entering the police academy. Our system comes with a free illustrated instruction manual for each graduate instructor of the program. We also offer our student manual that is available for purchase to each graduating instructor's students in their agency. This modern tactics system includes a two-year certification with both phone and email support.
